

NASPH 2023 BUSINESS MEETING MINUTES

9/23/23
Calgary

1. Hosts for future meetings

David Vessey has volunteered GVSU for next year. They have funding available.

Early Sept. would be a good date to be ahead of Art Prize (maybe sept 12-14)

Ted George has volunteered Texas A&M's Washington DC campus for the following year

Other attendees also volunteered to potentially host in future years:

Paul Fairfield, Queen's University
Pol Vandavelde, Marquette

Another possibility for future meetings: UC Riverside, where Georgia Warnke and Carlo DaVia currently teach

2. Executive committee elections

David Vessey and Greg Lynch are up for re-election. Both are eligible for a(n) additional term(s) and willing to run again. An email will be sent out soliciting other nominations.

3. Treasurer's report

This year's conference will cost ~$4200

After paying that the society will have ~$5700 in its account

4. New business/discussion

Ted George suggested that we might consider including a cash prize for the essay prize winner, in addition to publishing the paper in Epoche

Discussion of opportunities to strengthen ties with other hermeneutics societies, such as the International Hermeneutics Symposium and the Gadamer Gesellschaft

Possibly a joint meeting?

Discussion of additional opportunities for satellite sessions

Possibilities: American Academy of Religion, Society for Biblical Literature

Eric Dickman would be willing to organize a session at one of these in the future
